Gentlemen,

I Think it not amiss to give you an account of some choice Observations and Experiments that I have (not without some Cost and Diligence) lately made of the Horoscopes of several Places; which I hope will not be unwelcome to the Learned and Ingenious Artist.

Following the steps of the Ingenious Lucas Gauricus, I take notice, not only of the very Original Horoscopes of Places, but of their subsequent Ascendents too; and look upon a Primary Figure of any Place, &c. to be no longer Influential, than the Glory or Government thereof shall continue. So that if by Wars, or other Accidents, a City, Castle, or Country, come either to be conquer'd, decay'd, or destroy'd, I esteem its Horoscope or Paladium to be, either removed, or to have finished its Dominion and Rule over the same: and if such Place shall happen only to be conquered, that then the Horoscope, or Angel thereof, recedes from its Chair of Regency, giving place to another, as your Annual Prætors of Cities, &c. do; but still relates to the Government thereof, altho not with so splendid an Awe or Authority as before.

The neglect or non-observance of which Doctrine, is cause of great Errors in the Judicials of Astrology. For when an Astrologer shall suppose that such a Conjunction, Eclipse, Transit, &c. doth relate to the Pristine Horoscope of a City or Country, whose Ascendent is removed by reason of War, or some other Casualty, he may easily fail in the gross of his Judgments; and that which he predicted to befall Paris, Rome, or London, &c. may either not happen at all, or else very weakly; or may probably light on some other Place he thought not of.

As for Instance; if an Astrologer shall predict any eminent eminent Accident to befall Ghent in Flanders, from a Conjunction, Eclipse, &c. in Scorpio, the primary Horoscope of that Place, he will be sure to be greatly mistaken; because the Horoscope thereof is now changed from Scorpio to Leo, by the Conquest lately made over it. Thus I come to the several Observations & Experiments which I promised.

1. The Noble Island of Barbados was first yielded to the English on 17 February 17. 0^h 30' P. M. 1627. II then ascending, and I ruled the Hour. This is as I received it from the Pen of my worthy Friend, Dr. Rich. Lawford, Resident there.

2. Jamaica was taken by the English, on 10 May 1655. 3^h P. M. ♌ was Horoscopical, and ♄ govern'd the Hour.

3. Valenciennes was storm'd and taken, 7 March 1677 at 8^h 30' manè, 1677 hora I and II Horoscopical.

4. Stetin in Pomerania, after a glorious and stupendous Siege, was in an humble (yet honourable) manner surrendered to the Duke of Brandenburg, 4 January 6. S. N. 11^h A. M. 1677 hora ♄ and ♀ Horoscopical.

5. Ghent in Flanders was taken by the French King, on 12 March 1678. S. N. 2^h P. M. 1678, ♌ is the Horoscope.

6. Maellricht treated on 30 June 1673. and agreed to surrender about Noon on the same day, ♌ then ascended the Horoscope. Yet will I not aver this the true Horoscope of Maellricht, because I find that all the Dutch did not quit the Place until the next morning; but thought fit to mention it; to incline others, of better interest than my self, to discover the Truth thereof.

A little pains, well improv'd and encouraged, would be of great advantage to this part of Astrology, and help us to gain credit, as well to our Monthly as Annual Predictions; which is the true design and reason of these Experiments being made publick, by,

Brick-Court by the Dean's-yard Weilm.

The Law's our Rule of Life : the Judges be
The STARS of KINGS, and by that Rule dispense, (As they find REASON and NECESSITY)
To all degrees of Men, their Influence.
'Tis true, some find them sharp, and others sweet :
Right Sons, and Rebels, diversly they greet.

Six Planets plac'd in bestial reptile Signs,
Would fain turn Heaven's angry Influence,
From Lords of Reason, unto Slaves of Sense:
But that sly Hermes with brisk Mavors Joyns
In Aquary, [which must not be forgot];
That Treacherous humane Sign can spawn a Plot.

etiological information:

In Nomine DEI hunc Annum incipio.

I will begin my Judgments of this ensuing Year in the Name, and with the Assistance of God, from whom proceeds all Truth, and with whom there is no variableness, &c.

A treacherous smiling Aspect of ♀ & ♂ first salutes the World; 'tis violent and impermanent: and the following Knot of Configurations turn some Comick Scenes of great Concernment into a Tragick Dress. The Angry Stars have not wholly left us yet, but threaten some disturbance, as well in Courts as Cities, Camps, &c. God preserve his Majesty, and the Government of these Kingdoms wherein we live, and make us but a thankful People to him, and obedient to our Prince, and then we shall be happy. The good Planets beget serious Counsels; but ♀'s station, and ♂ his passage through ~~an~~ (that treacherous humane Sign, the Joy of the Worlds known Kazabizumay, or evil-spirit) poison our greatest hopes of good. A great Lady leaves this life for a better, having (like Queen Diab) scarce liv'd out half her days.

Fel Chronus, laſt in Cancer; raiſ'd ſtorms,
 And Hurricanes; and planted direful Arms
 In humble Scotland: Try'd their Loyalty,
 For which Montroſs, and others, bravely die!
 'Twas Crime then to be thought a Man of Worth Evil came not from, but went (then) to the North.

Salus Populi Suprema Lex.

Happy are those worthy Senators who study the welfare of the Republick. And thrice happy are those People that shall now study Peace and Obedience. All of a sudden me-thinks I hear of dreadful Treachery Northward to break forth. Is not  the exaltation of ? God grant that pretences of Piety, and a shew of zeal for Religion do not imbrew some Septentrional Countries into Disorders, Wars, and Confusion. The    menaces Dillempers to the Western Parts. Mars is of nature intemperate, and raises the bilous Humour, which fires the Gall, and inflames the Heart with Passions so great, that Mortals can hardly bear one with another. A Fever of Religion turns the soonest into a Frenzy, & makes each Wight an Orestes. Lord God! when shall the Angry Angel depart from our Territories wholly, and never to return any more? Some little sprinkling of good News from the South-westward, gladding the London Merchants, who are happy by being signified under Mercury.

March hath XXXI days.

Here's four strong Quadrates, besides what the Moon
Makes with each single Planet and the Sun;
Bright Sol's Eclipsed in his Royal Throne
By pale-fac'd Luna, e're the Month be done.
Like Causes, like Effects do still produce,
And March-Birds are not always good for use.

Mel ubi, Fel ibi.

March comes in with much brisk Action, and this not altogether unpleasing to Persons of great Authority, both in Church and State. But suddenly after, viz. about the 11th day, ☿ ☿ h, significat quod Reges in suis rebus se abscondent, &c. That sundry Heroes sitting in high Places, are at a stand in their greatest Councils and Affairs; but possibly to no great Injury, because ☿ is strong, and envious grinning h very weak, and unable to do the Mischief he designs. I tell thee, O clandestine Confirator! be thou who thou wilt, in making it thy business to disturb either thy Governors or Country, thou dost therein assuredly court thy own destruction. Various News from several parts beyond the Seas: Ambassadors arrive in, and from several Parts, but to what effect? — ☿ h ☿, significat quod erunt multa furta, latrones & predones multos & manifestos. March windy weather, with Snow or cold Rain, helps to destroy our hopes of much March Dust.

April yeelds very few Coelestial Rays :
 Jove in the Bull, Venus in Pisces plays :
 The first doth worthy Ireland advance ;
 The second well assists some parts of France.
 But Chronus quadrates to the Queen of Love,
 Doth storms of Wind, and Tears of Women move.

Nulla salus bello, pacem te poscimus omnes.

The fiery warlike Planet Mars in Aries, tells us, That the worthy and generous Souldier begins to make Elbow-room in the World, and brandish their glittering Swords and Spears ; resolving not yet a while to turn them into Pruning-hooks, or Plow-shares. The Murthers, Treasons, Perjuries, Rebellions, and other Cruelties of late years acted against God and his Vicegerents, cry aloud to Heaven for Vengeance : So that that Holy and Divine Prophecy is not yet like to be fulfilled, at least in these European Countries. An elderly grave but yet infirm Man, meets some unexpected Honour ; he's too much decayed and waited to hold it long. A Report of good News arrives to our English Merchants from the Westward, but suddenly contradicted. Mercury scarce salutes the threshold of the Twins, but leaves them again by a retrograde Motion. An eminent Female Personage meets a Dishonour, hard to be removed from the breasts or Beliefs of a censorious World. And a brisk Mercurialis is turn'd out of all Employment.

May last XXXI days.

Four brisk Conjunctions in the thundering Bull, Make him appear (like Cannon cramm'd full Of various Shot) just ready to discharge
His Errand to the lower World at large.
Hence various Weather, various Actions too,
Making poor Cattel, well as Mankind, rue.

June hath XXX-Days.

Four Planets in the Twins ; and those four be
The Sun, bright Venus, Jove, and Mercury.
Great Councils now on foot ! and men of wit
Into great places, great preferments get.
But Mars unravels all the others weave.
Prometheus sometimes doth great Jove deceive:

July hath XXXI Days:

The Deities resolve with one consent,
 Fairest Diana for to complement ;
 But she being indispos'd to entertain
 So many of them, gets from home again :
 Opposes their intention ; whence doth spring
 A Crab-like motion (now) in every thing.

August hath XXXI Days.

The two grand Rebels of the glorious sky,
In Cancer seem to be at unity.
When snakes and vipers join, we may expect,
Not Balsom issue, but what doth infect.
From wicked coupling, such effects proceed :
If bit by Badgers, then we're sure to bleed.

Nil proder quod non ledere possit idem.
The Heavens and Stars do at once both smile and frown upon the actions of mankind. Were't not for the unlucky ☿ h ☿ in 19 ☿. this Luration might prove of friendly Influence unto the world. For ☿ in Medio celi, betoken Honour, Success, and much felicity to Kings, Princes. and Governours, and shews their subjects to be of obedient hearts and minds. And ☿ in the second Angle, indicates the Commonalty to thrive and grow rich apace by industry and prudence. But Oh!
that fatal ☿ ☿ in the Agathodaimon, as well of the worlds figure, as of the Lunation, poysons the hopes of all our happiness; God grant it hurt not the Harvest too. Mulx aggritudines militum, & nobili-um excursus, mors mulierum, &c. The Ma-crocosm is distemper'd also, as well as the Microcosm. Tonitrua, fulmina, calor vehe- ment, cum multis calidis ventis, &c. Let the Kingdoms of great Britain and Ireland with the Sacred Ruler of them, be ever happy, and let the Bolts of Heavens anger fall Northward, and upon such people who love not England's Peace and Interest.
Anex.

September hath XXX Days.

Sol entring Libra, hides his Golden head,
And Luna triumphs in his place and stead.
Yet 'tis but for a while. As Princes, who
By bold usurpers are debar'd their due:
The fraud once understood; bright Justice shines,
And fits Victorious, 'bove all Countermines.

In or near these times the people of several Countries seem much discontented, and many sudden, and perhaps extravagant desires and petitions appear among them. Q is stationary in his own Dignities, & in a double crafty aspect of surly ungrateful t, & in Placitick Q too, over whom he claims Dominion. God preserve the Honour and Dignity of the Clergy; they have many enemies. The unwearied actions of Princes and Governors cannot content all sorts of different opinions. Oh! that we were but so happy as to put in practice that excellent advice, about reconciling dissenting parties, as is given in that admirable Book, entitled, A Discourse of the rise and power of Parliaments, &c but the compassing of so great a blessing is perhaps reserv'd for the honour of a better age; this being found scarce worthy to deserve it. Divers Ships arrive from the South west about these times, & many likewise are going forth: God send them prosperous ventures. The venerick Q of h & Q menaces some eminent female personage, with Payson either to her person or honour.

October hath XXXI Days.

Chronus doth square bright Sol and Mercury:

Hot Mars and Venus do not well agree.

But Plots and Plotters nearly out of date,

I fear no great disturbance to the State.

Let petty Garrillers quarrel, if they please;

Their spleen once spent, they'll gladly covet ease.

Fugitio in sese virtutes continet omnes.

Altr. ex's fled to Heaven; and the cardinal □ ○ h begets unkind effects in the weather, and distempers the minds and fancies of mankind; and although it be fall of the leaf, yet the actions of the world seem to rise high, and men at this time are not easily contented. A great Statesman meets his period, and is not much lamented. Great, yet close consultations among the Hernes of Government, & contriving how to enforce new, abrogate old Laws. Some petty unruly tricks appear among the vulgar, but to no great disturbance. ♂ in ♀ menaces a great & populous City with casual fires and differences in her Councils, with the death of one, or more of her Magistrates. Let London be happy in the choice of her new Lord Mayor. Some eminent Cedars seem subject to a Palsie, and shrubs begin to think of advancement. God direct all for the best, & permit the tutelary Angel, or Genius of this Nation a power to keep us from staggering in opinion. Si Jherusalem Deus ipse sequimur i eam, &c. A Janus government in Church or State, is ever of dangerous consequence. I am deceiv'd if one day in this month be not much more kind than it was two years since, and to a glorious Hero will find it.

November hath XXX-Days.

Bright Jove and Hermes in this Month oppose,
While Mars at both lays on with downright blows ;
And Rebell-like, confronts the feeble Sun,
With whom Jove's found in opposition.

That Church and State's uncase, where the sword
Doth make its Governours call back their word.

Angry Mars upon the Mid-heaven, and in Virgo too, in raye of ☉ ♀ ♄ and ☿ in the fourth Angle, presages ill weather, and an ill Moneth in general affairs also. And although the weather be cold, yet maggots generate amain in the brains of the multitude. Many scandalous Books and Papers frequently spread and promoted, to the offence and dishonour of men in high places. Plots and crafty designs on foot in several Countreies, and this not so much because scorpio is the Horoscope of the Luration, as for ♂ his being in ♈, casting his projecting beams from that active Sign, unto so many several Planets. Few will be found to pray with honest Agay, Vanitatem & remedium semper longe amove a me. Men do rather now sacrifice to the impious Goddesses, Mendacitatem and make lyes their greatest refuge. It is a time more for counsel than action; and yet we shall find sundry brisk removes of many in publick honour and office, as well in the Law, as in the Church, and Courts of Princes; possibly, occasion'd by the death or disgrace of one or two great Officers, &c.

December hath XXXI Days.

Thus have we run our Course throughout the year,
Viewing the various shapes which in't appear.
And for conclusion find the radiant Stars
Are perpetrating divers mental jars,
Displeasing unto many. Th' weather too,
Weeps very often, as some great ones do.

Domine ne secundum peccata tribuas.
How! a double ♂ of ♀, and from Tropical signes too! many malicious spirits appear in the world, and incline 2 men to folly and madness, to lying, fraud, and a libelling also of their Superiours,
but the fiend (as his fashion is) forsakes several of them, and leaves them in the hands of Authority to be punished for their wickedness. News of many shipwracks near these times, and much robbery both at Sea and Land. And yet is the Horoscope at the Luration. But, hark thee, honest Reader, hast thou not heard of pious Frauds, Godly Cheats, holy Hypocrisie? (Curat non facit Mo- nachum.) You may perchance now see them. The fraudulency and hypocrisie of the late Age hath almost banished true Religion from among us. God bless our Gracious Sovereign, and his Honourable Council, with the Reverend the Bishops, and give them unity among themselves, and a spirit to discern what belongs to the peace of our disturbed Nation, that they may provide Remedies before it be too late. Make them as wise as Solomon, and as successful as the Sons of Issachar, who had understanding in the times, and thence taught Israel what they ought to do. Deum timere, Regem Honorare.

Astrological Observations on the Year of our Lord God, 1680.

By John Gadbury, Student in Astrology, &c.

Quod felix faustumq; sit.

I shall here consider the condition and state of the ensuing year, and the accidents that therein are likely, (by Gods permission) according to the course of the Stars, to attend mankind: And this shall be by endeavouring to explain unto you these three things, viz.

1. The sense and meaning of the Vernal Figure.

2. Some

Astrological Observations, 1680.

2. Somewhat touching the Commet which appeared in April, 1677.

3. An account of the Paraselenæ, which appeared on Sunday, January the 6th, 1678.

1. I shall begin with the Vernal Figure.

The Regal sign Leo, or the Coelestial Lion, ascends the Horoscope at the Sun his entrance into Aries, and that great Star, called Cor Leonis riseth therewith, and the Sun, Lord thereof, is posited in the eighth Angle; which together with the Moons being in Scorpio, and in quadrate of Venus, declares that the commonalty or people, generally in this year, will be of high and elevated spirits, of brisk and sharp conceptions. &c. aiming at eminent and lofty things, ambitious, aspiring, and torrent-like opposing each contradiction they shall meet withall, using all subtile ways and means to compass their desired ends, though never so unreasonable: Together with this spirit of Pride that seems now to be let loose among us, there is also a spirit of fraud and hypocrisie that bears it company, which animates men to entrap, ensnare, and betray one another; yea, even their very Friends, and those of the same Feather and Party with them, possibly, to the ruine and destruction of many. Mars and Mercury are not in ☿ for nothing, in this Figure: But of that more anon. Howbeit, I would wish the briskest of the contriving Tribe, in this year, to order their steps aright; and remember that those who have ♄ for their Horoscope, have ♄ certainly for their enemy; and this is an Axiome allowed by all Genethliacal Astrologers. And I assure you, what is found true in each single person, will bear the same Image of verity to Societies, or Nations, though in greater proportion. And in this our vernal Figure the Argument is enforced; for ♄ is, not only naturally, but accidentally too, the Enemy of England in this year, as being in ☐ ☉, as well as he is Dominus Septima, and by his malefick Position in the Eleventh Angle.

The Ancients tell us, if ♄ be in ☐ ☉ in Figura Mundi, and both of them Impeded, and if Saturn hap to be elevated above Sol, as here, then shall mankind suffer much sorrow and trouble in that year: and that there will many captivities and imprisonments befall men; and every useful commodity tending to our preservation will prove noxious and dangerous. Saturn poisons our hopes of happiness, and defeats our likeliest expectations of good, and destroys the friendship and amity of one man to another.

Nor will this year escape without some remarkable mortality; [I mean not so signal as happen'd 1625, or 1665, but like one of your lesser Pestilences, as happen'd 1636 and 1647, &c.] for Saturn is Lord of Diseases, and Sol, that now signifies the people, (which he doth not commonly do) is in the Angle of Death. I could produce you parallel instances, but it needs not; for every moderate Astrologer understands the reason hereof.

Nor is Sol alone in the 8th, but there in ☐ ♀, and ☿ ♀ are there in ☿ also; and the mutable ♀ (who always hath a general signification of the people) is in ☐ ♀, who receives exaltation in the 8th Angle.

Authors tell us, and our experience proves it, when ☿ and ♀ are in ☿, that Knowledge and Science will receive increase: but then also, Craft, Fraud, Lying, Deceit, Back-biting, Contention, &c. will be promoted; and if they are impeded (here both are sub Radiis solis) many Forgeries, Perjuries, Trepannings, &c. will be practised among men, and divers nefarious actions will be perpetrated, and monstrous and stupendious scandals promoted to the dishonour and disturbance of many in eminent places, not only by the tongues of malicious people, but by their Pens and Prints also. Many will make Cozenage, Backbiting and Lyes, &c. a Trade to live by, and glory in their Frauds. Subjects will prove unruly and disobedient to their superiors, Servants to their Masters, and Friends and Relations will be perfidious and treacherous to each other; and all this under the mask or mantle of Sanctity! the ☿ is in ✕ (an incurvating treacherous sign, though) the dignities of ♀. And thus you see, that although we may may probably increase in Science, we are sure likewise to increase in sorrow.

To avert these heavy menaces of the Stars, let us study like Christian men to be wise, and to know and believe, That Obedience is better than sacrifice; and that such who yield themselves unto the temptations of Satan, are certainly in the road of being made his vassals eternally. Let us therefore. I say, Study to be quiet, and to do our own business, and give honour to our superiors, and not disturb the peace of one another; because that tends to the disturbance of the Government itself: Let us mind our own concerns, and pray to God to direct others for the best in theirs.—It is most excellent advice, which his Grace the Arch-Bishop of Canterbury gives, to such-like unquiet spirits, in his Sermon on Novemb. 13. 1678. p. 34. — “Let my Counsel, I pray, be acceptable unto you; “study to be quiet, and to do your own business; and that “lies not in the Court, or in the Palace, but here in the Temple. “Tis not to listen at the Doors of the two Houses of “Parliament, or to eaves-drop the Council-Chamber; but to “wait in your proper stations with modesty and patience, “what Avisoes and Commands are sent you from thence, and “to comply with them, instead of thronging and pestering the “Galleries and Avenues of those places, where matters of “State are upon the Table: what a blessed appearance were “it in times of danger, such as this is, to see the Church- “doors always open, and the great stream and shoal of People continually flowing thither; and to find some of you always upon the floor, there weeping between the Porch and “the Altar, and saying — Spare thy people, O Lord, and give “not thy heritage to reproach, &c.

But, to turn to our Vernal Figure again, let it be remembered that the 5th Angle signifies Death: And the three Planets mention'd, posited therein, portends the death of three sorts of people, besides the very vulgar: (1.) Many great and honourable persons, as signified by Sol. (2.) Several of our hopeful young men, as represented by ♀. (3.) And divers of our strong men, as govern'd by ☿. All these, in their sundry conditions, becoming so retrograde, as never to be direct any more; making room for others to succeed them. To be more plain, many in great Place and Authority, Heads and Masters of of great Families, Governors of Societies, Colledges, Schools, &c.—Generals of Armies, Captains of War both by Sea and Land, and other Military Officers, &c.—Heirs of many eminent Families, Scholars, Secretaries, Merchants, Accomptants, &c. I say, many of all which kinds, are, in this year metaced by the sharp knife of Atropos, and will meet a resting-place where all their errors shall be obliviaded with them.—And, to make up this banquet the more compleat, ♃ in ☐ ♀ gives us notice, that many worthies of the female sex, will also become morsels of mortality to satisfy the great devourer. Death hath his different sorts of Diet, suitable to his divers Appetite. He is a Monarch too mighty to feed always upon one sort of food, he loves variety of Dishes, & at sometimes delights to feast on different dainties. as now in this particular year.

Would you know the probable propinquate cause of this choice mortality, that is thus severely portended? Understand then, that ♃ is in ☐ ♀ from the dignities of ♄ & ♀, & that ♃ who is Lord of the 5th Angle is in ♄ & in ☐ ♀, & disposes of that malefick ♄ & ♀, and ♄ claiming a dominion over Sol, which plainly presages that this havock now likely to be made by Death, will not be so much by violence, (and yet some violent deaths (with Cardan, &c.) I also fear, as Poisons, Stabbings, Hanging, &c.) as by Luxurious and idle courses, viz. Surfeits, Feavers, Debauchery of sundry kinds. Pilvis Crapula, quam Gladius; The Belly and the Groin (those two Grand Idols, to which this Age doth constantly sacrifice) do ever destroy and devour more than an Army, or all the violent deaths contriv'd by nature.

I should here observe unto you sundry other things from this Vernal Figure, but wanting room therefore, shall only take notice, that immediately after the Vernal Ingress, Sol will be Eclipsed in his Exaltation, as he was in the last year. Eclipses of Sol in ♈ were wont to keep a due & orderly method (as I have elsewhere observed,) but it is otherways now in this Eclipse.

The famous Cometen hath truly minded us of the danger attending England from Eclipses in ♈. — Si quando fuerit Eclipsis in ♈ aut ♏ signis. mortem regis. An Eclipse of Sol in ♈ or ♏, betokens the death or downfall of some great Emperor, King or Prince, and the Reason thereof is near at hand. Sol is Rex Planetarum, as a Prince among the Planets, and so naturally represents sents the greatest of Personages, and those of highest dignity and power: and ♈ and ♏ are, not only regal signs, and so signify Empire, Rule, Dominion, &c. but also the great dignities of Sol; the one being his House or Mansion, and the other as his Seat in Parliament wherein he is exalted: Such Eclipses therefore must needs be of the most ominous import.

Bethem tells us, If a Planet be Combust, or Retrograde, in his House or Exaltation, he is as a man confin'd by his Prince to his own dwelling; or as one sick and unable to help himself. Much more is it so when he is Eclipsed or darkned there: for he is then as a person bound by Thieves that break in upon him with Armed violence, to rob and despoil him of his Goods and Monies, and possibly also, of his Life. Thus much shall serve to be said upon the Worlds Figure of this year, 1680.

2. Of the Comet which appeared in April, 1677.

It may not be forgotten, that on Sunday April 22, 1677, there was a Comet seen in England, and curiously observed by the ingenious Mr Flamsted, at His Majesties Observatory at Greenwich near London: as it was also by many Learned and worthy persons of the Royal Society, in divers other places. It was likewise visible in sundry other Countries, as well as in England; particularly in Jamaica, of which I shall give you a brief, yet faithful account, as I received the same from my very worthy Friend, Dr. Nathaniel Estlaugh, resident there. viz.

Sir, I must advertise you of a Blazing-star which we saw here in April last, [It was not believed by many, 'till you had received an Account thereof before now] hearing of it first the 15th day, the next morning I arose to watch for it: and to the East, a little more than half an hour before the Sun rose, I saw it, and it seemed to have 5 or 6 deg. N. latitude. The Star was of a pale Brass-colour, and the Tail of a Saturnine Hue, pointing upwards, a little inclining, N.W. I saw it again the 17 and 18 days, and perceived its motion was towards the Sun, for every day it appeared less than before. The 19 and 20 days I could not see it at all. Some here affirmed to me, they saw it 10 days after; but I believe they were deceived with a sight of the splendant Venus only, which rose gloriously before the Sun. It startled me much to find it in ♈ Englands Ascendant. I pray God keep you all in peace. Thus far my ingenious Friend, Dr. Estlaugh, from whence may be noted these three things:

First, It is observable, that what Mr. Flamsted and others saw at London in γ , was seen at Jamaica in γ . Secondly, that although this Comet was not seen in England before the 19 of April, yet it was visible in the West-Indies on the 15 day thereof. Thirdly, That when it did disappear in Jamaica, it was conspicuous to us in Great Britain. Which observations I commend, first, to the industrious Astronomer, who is able with ease to resolve, how such different sights of the same Object happen in different places. Secondly, To the ingenious Astrologer, who may hereby be taught, not to make his Judgments upon Comets or New-Stars, Universal, because they are not universally visible, nor yet equally so, to places five or six hours distant.

There's no Phænomena in Nature, which are not of real signification and effect to mankind in one place or other, upon this earthly Globe, else, to what purpose do they appear? or why have all Ages been, not only affected with them, but suddenly after them afflicted with variety of misfortunes. — Comete non frustra apparent, sed conspicuntur, ut denotent res magnas, &c. (saith one) Blazing Stars do never appear to mankind in vain, but by being visible unto us do denounce great alterations near at hand, thereby to prepare us to strive by humiliation and prayer, to avert the Judgments of an highly offended God.

Astrologers, with one consent tell us, Comete movent bella & seditiones, &c. That Comets move Wars and seditions, & transmutant imperia, &c. and that they declare the change of Empires and Kingdoms, Laws Religion, Customs and Constitutions, &c. And they give good Reason for this; for, say they, when Comets or new Stars are generated, many exhalations hot & dry, are drawn from the Earth, whereby the humours in our bodies are exsiccated, and our spirits inflamed; whence we are easily provoked to wrath. Thence follows Animosities, Dillikes, Strifes, Hatred, Plots, Contrivances and Conspiracies, &c. — After these, Wars, Slaughters, Invasions, &c. From them issues Victory and Conquest; and in conclusion, a change of Empire and Dominion. And all this to teach us, that there is nothing eternal but God alone, who is the Lord and Maker of the Heavens and Earth, whose Kingdom is from everlasting, and endureth for ever. And this is a Truth not to be shaken by the Sophistry of Damns, nor needs it any support from Tametes Zealous Railing.

Neither is this our Sorites so easily invalidated or weakened, as some men, enemies to Starry Learning, imagine or pretend.

For

For if the Links of the Chain are of equal force and strength, then must the Chain it self be most compleat and perfect, and fully serviceable to its designed end. And we well know, (unless we will wilfully wink) that every days experience, in one way, and in one place or another, confirms unto us — That there can be no quarrel or contention without heat or passion; neither can there be passion, except the spirits are first inflamed: nor yet wars and slaughters, without quarrels and contentions; nor victory without wars; nor change of Empire or Government without Victory.

And let me not, I pray you, be censured because I mention this Comet of 1677, in my Judgments of 1680, for you know the subjects of my two last years Epimeris were too large to admit thereof; and I could well have spared my pains thereupon now, having other matter, more than enough, to have furnished my three Sheets withal; yet I thought fit to remember the world thereof at this time, lest many might think I had wholly overlooked so great and amazing a Predigic.

And I conceive it cannot now be too late, sith there are some among us, that pretend to enslave us to the effects of Comets, not only for one year, two or three, &c. but for an 100 years, and more together, although I must profess my self not to be of their Opinion; as I have elsewhere declared more largely. For that were to abstract from the Predigies of the present Age, and put the glory of their portents upon those of elder Times; and tacitly to affirm, that the alwise God hath left himself as to these times without witness of the various dispensations of his Providence, whereto we know, and see, (according to the Psalmist) Testis dicitur dominus exercituum, &c. and all the Predigies of Heaven, in all times have been, and are, but as so many Monitors or Heraulds, denouncing Gods Judgments approaching them that inhabit the earth, where such Predigies are most visible.

Neither am I yet fully satisfied whether Comets are any other than Signs; for should they be causes, then methinks their effects should immediately succeed their appearance, since the best Philosophers opinion, that causes and effects are constant; as we see it dayly in the weather, and in the generation of Forms, &c. But, I cannot stand here to discuss such nice and curious points. Let it therefore suffice in this place, that History and and Chronology do assure us---That Blazing Stars, or Comets, are the messengers of Almighty God, and the certain precursors of dangers eminent to befall a wicked and sinful people; as it happened before the destruction of Jerusalem some years, there appeared a Comet for Six months space together, if we will give credit to Lanquit and others.

3. Of the Paraselenæ or Mock-moons seen on Sunday January the 6th. 1679, at Lempster.

UPon Sunday, January 6, 1679. there were seen at Lempster in the County of Heresford, Two Moons at once; the true one and a counterfeit. The account that I received thereof was in a Letter from Mr. James Matthias, a very ingenious, and carefully observing Person of such matters, and a good Student in Astrology, in these words:

Sir, The present haste of this, is to inform you of an unusual Prodigy, the appearance of two Moons, the 6th day of this instant January, about 9 h. P. M. the Moons Arch was high, the true Moon appearing bright and transparent, and the mock-Moon somewhat faintly. At the first sight they were seen about half a yard distance (according to common vision) one in the lap of the other. This Prodigy was not only seen by myself, but by Mr. John Steed, an Apothecary, Recorder of the Town, who called up Thomas Richards the elder, and the younger, with Thomas Griffiths, and several others, who all saw it. At the first this Prodigy was seen, as in the first Figure, the true Moon appearing much bigger than it should have been by its Age. The second Figure shews how it did disappear; the Moons seeming to touch with their lower Horns, and were separated above.

1. Figure.

2. Figure.

These Celestial Prodigies, as before was said of Comets or New-Stars, are the certain precursors of many unwonted accidents, cidents, and sometimes very great Mundane Alterations. As it happen'd a little before the destruction of Catana in Sicily by an Earthquake, three Moons were seen in those parts An. 1169. And after the appearance of three Moons, Anno. 1314, the English (though a warlike Nation) in the reign of Edward the second, were overthrown in Battel by the Scots: and divers miseries were set on foot in the Empire at the same time, two Emperors being Crown'd at once, upon some differences which happen'd among the Electors. God in his great mercy defend these Northern Countries from the calamities which these Prodigies seem to presage, and quiet the differences of Christendom, by checking the deceitful, wicked, unruly, turbulent spirit, now let loose among us, to the great disturbance of Church and State. And let us know it for a Truth, because utter'd by the Spirit of Truth, That though the Stars, and Celestial Prodigies are the precursors of changes, &c. yet it is truly, Because of unrighteous dealing, wrong, blasphemies, and divers deceipts, that a Realm, or Kingdom shall be translated from one people to another, Ecclesiasticus 10. 8.

I could tell you how the Heavens were posited at the beginning of this amazing apparition, and what they naturally denote; but want of room prevents me. Let it suffice, that God hath a controversie with us for our sins, and that he gives us notice thereof by these his Celestial Monitors and Messengers.

I will not take upon me to determine whether these Paraselenæ are caused only by certain dispositions of the Clouds, or by Angels or Spirits, &c. nor yet, whether if the cause of them be in the Clouds (as some think) that Angels or Spirits do not work those Clouds into such like forms, as they are thereunto appointed by him that made the Clouds and Heavens also. I will not, I say, take upon me to determine upon such mysterious Arcanums, but leave them to the disquisition of the more Learned Vertuosi of the World, and conclude my present Theam, and my this years Observations together, in the words of that great Oracle of Learning, Sir Tho. Brown, in his Religio Medici, Sect. 31.---I believe, that those many Prodiges and ominous Prognosticks which forewarn the ruine of States, Princes, and private Persons, are the charitable preparations of good Angels, which more careful enquiries term but the effects of chance and nature. *Laus Deo.
